

ROUTERS AND FAILOVER

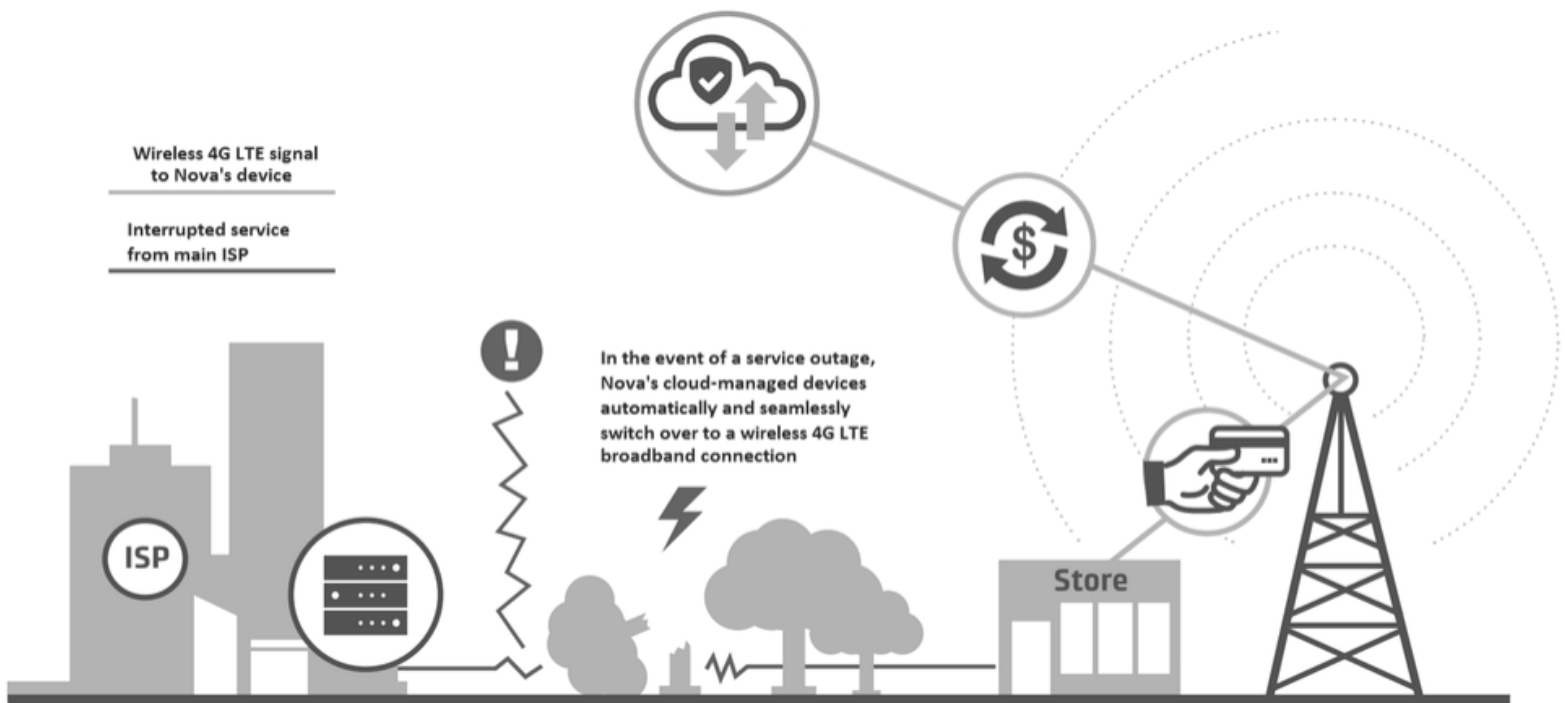

Even a short disruption in the Internet service could cost your business lost revenues, customer dissatisfaction, and reduced productivity. The question isn't whether your business will lose Internet connectivity, but rather how to protect your business from loss and disruption when it does happen!

THE SOLUTION

Nova devices depend on a cellular signal that isn't subject to the sorts of physical disruptions that can knock out traditional cable, DSL, and T1 connectivity.

In the event of a service outage, Nova's cloud-managed routers automatically and seamlessly switch over to a cellular 4G LTE connection allowing any devices connected to the failover router to continue to operate keeping your network humming and customers and employees happy.
